01 - Biography

Major Daniel Webster Whittle (1840-1901) was an American evangelist, Bible teacher and hymn writer. Through the influence of D. L. Moody, he entered full-time evangelism and worked with P. P. Bliss and James McGranahan. He wrote (mostly under pseudonym, El Nathan) the words for about two hundred hymns, including "Moment by Moment," "I Know Whom I Have Believed," and "Banner of the Cross."

02 - Title and Introduction

The Christian Worker and his Bible: Scripture Texts for Students and Workers By D. W. Whittle

Daniel Webster Whittle (1840 - 1901) was a Major in the Northern Army during the Civil War. Following "The War Between the States", Whittle entered the full-time ministry through the influence of Dwight Moody. He was an evangelist who traveled with the famous hymn writer and gospel singer P.P. Bliss and later James McGranahan. He wrote (mostly under pseudonym, El Nathan) the words for about two hundred hymns, including "Moment by Moment," "I Know Whom I Have Believed," and "Banner of the Cross."
