Description

A.B. Simpson emphasizes the importance of committing our trials to God, illustrating that by trusting Him wholly, we can exchange our anxious cares for His Almighty care. He explains that God's hand humbles us but also lifts us up in due time, encouraging believers to cast their worries upon Him. Simpson reassures that God is capable of sustaining us through our troubles, as He carries the weight of our burdens and looks after our interests when we trust and obey Him. The sermon calls for a complete surrender to God's will, allowing Him to take care of our concerns.

Transcript

Commit means to hand over, to trust wholly to another. So, if we give our trials to Him, He will carry them. If we walk in righteousness He will carry us through. Humble yourselves therefore under the mighty hand of God, that he may exalt you in due time (1 Peter 5:6). There are two hands there-God's hand pressing us down, humbling us, and then God's hand lifting us up. [Cast] all your care upon him; for he careth for you (1 Peter 5:7). There are two cares in this verse-your care and His care. They are different in the original. One means anxious care, the other means Almighty care. Cast your anxious care on Him and take His Almighty care instead. No longer be overwhelmed by trouble, but believe God is able to sustain you through it.

The government is on His shoulder.

Believe that if you trust and obey Him and meet His will, He will look after your interests. Simply exchange burdens. Take His yoke upon you, and let Him care for you.
