

All Things to Him

by Andrew Murray

The sermon emphasizes the importance of giving God his glory and recognizing Him as the all in all in order to live a life that pleases Him.

Scripture: Psalm 115:1, Isaiah 43:7, Matthew 5:16, Romans 12:1, 1 Corinthians 10:31, 2 Corinthians 5:15, Ephesians 3:20, Philippians 4:13, Colossians 3:17, 1 Peter 4:11

Topics: "Glory Of God", "Total Surrender"

Description

Andrew Murray emphasizes that many Christians fail to recognize God's claim over every aspect of their lives, believing that living solely for His glory is unattainable. This misunderstanding stifles their prayers and efforts to seek a deeper relationship with God. He urges believers to seek the Holy Spirit's revelation of God's expectations for a Christian life, which includes giving Him glory and acknowledging His sovereignty. Without this understanding, they cannot fully embrace the call to dedicate all things to God. Ultimately, Murray calls for a transformation in how Christians view their lives in relation to God's glory.

Transcript

Many, very many Christians, may we now say most Christians, have never seen that God claims all, that he asks that every moment of our life, every power of our being, every part of our possessions, shall have but one aim - the pleasure, the glory of God. They think such a life difficult and impossible, and with that every earnest prayer or effort after it is stifled. They hold firmly to their orthodox, what they count scriptural, view of what they think possible for a Christian, and never seek for the Spirit's revelation of God's thoughts concerning the standard of a Christian life. They know very little of giving God his glory and worshipping him as the all in all; they know still less about his working all in all; no wonder they have never understood the claim - all things to him.

They, therefore, cannot say: To him be glory.
