

Holy Spirit as Revealer of the Things of God

by Andrew Murray

The Holy Spirit is the life and power of God, revealing the truth and life of God to us through His presence in our spirits.

Scripture: John 16:13, Romans 8:26-27, 1 Corinthians 2:10-12, Galatians 5:22-23, Ephesians 1:17-18

Topics: "Holy Spirit", "Revelation Of God"

Description

Andrew Murray emphasizes the role of the Holy Spirit as the revealer of God's truth and power, asserting that the Spirit is essential for truly knowing God. He explains that while human thoughts can create beautiful images of spiritual truths, they cannot impart the life that the Spirit provides. The Holy Spirit uniquely enters into the spirit of man, enabling a deep and personal connection with God. This divine interaction allows believers to experience the fullness of God's life and work within them.

Transcript

The Spirit is the very life and power of God; all that he reveals is truth and power. He gives us to know God because he enters into the life and communicates the very thing which the word speaks in spirit and in truth. Through him we know God by what he is and gives and works in us.

Thoughts can only give pictures of spiritual things. At times these may be beautiful and delightful pictures, that make most pleasing impressions. They may waken strong desires in the heart and stir the will to its utmost effort, but they never can give or reveal the life. This is the sole prerogative of the Spirit of God.

He can do this not only because he is the Spirit of God, but because he can and does enter into the very spirit of man.
