

Ye Shall Know That I Am the Lord

by Andrew Murray

Knowing God is the highest privilege and the source of eternal life, and it is the greatest favour God can bestow upon us.

Scripture: Ezekiel 36:26, John 17:3

Topics: "Knowing God", "The Nature of God"

Description

Andrew Murray emphasizes the profound significance of knowing God, as highlighted by the prophet Ezekiel's repeated declaration, 'Ye shall know that I am the Lord.' He explains that this knowledge is not only the essence of eternal life but also the ultimate privilege and joy for believers. The revelation of God's glory, holiness, power, and saving love in our lives is the highest favor bestowed upon us, providing strength and fulfillment.

Transcript

It is well known that the keyword of the prophet Ezekial, occurring more than 60 times, is this, "Ye shall know that I am the Lord." To know God is eternal life. It is the privilege, the joy, the strength of his people. God can bestow no higher favour than to make himself known. When his glory, his holiness, his power, his nearness, his saving love, are revealed in the soul, it has all.
