

My Dear Husband's Death

by Anne Dutton

Anne Dutton finds comfort and strength in God's presence and promises as she navigates the loss of her husband.

Scripture: Deuteronomy 31:6, Psalm 46:1, Romans 8:28, Romans 8:38, 2 Corinthians 1:3

Topics: "Suffering And Grief", "Gods Sovereignty"

Description

Anne Dutton preaches about finding strength and comfort in God during times of deep sorrow and loss. Despite facing overwhelming grief and feeling like sinking in deep waters, she acknowledges the presence of God's everlasting arms supporting her and providing her with strength. Through faith and trust in God's sovereignty, she finds peace in knowing that all things, even afflictions, work together for her good, and that nothing can separate her from the love of God and His protection.

Transcript

I have received the news of my dear husband's death, as the ship in which he sailed for England had sunk at sea. This stroke is so great that it almost overcomes my weak nature, and at times I am ready to sink in deep waters. But, glory to my God, I feel the everlasting arms underneath me, and, when ready to faint, my dear Lord gives me a cordial. He tells me this is among the all things that work together for my good, that none (no person or thing) shall pluck me out of His and His Father's hands. And oh, how sweetly did that word reconcile me to receive this affliction at the Lord's hand, patiently, yes, thankfully.
