

Admiring God

by A.W. Tozer

True worship involves not just gratitude, but admiration for who God is.

Scripture: Exodus 3:14, 1 Chronicles 16:29, Psalm 95:6, Psalm 100:4, Psalm 145:3, Isaiah 6:3, John 4:24, Romans 11:33, Hebrews 12:28-29, Revelation 4:11

Topics: "Worship", "Admiration of God"

Description

A.W. Tozer emphasizes the importance of admiring God, suggesting that true worship transcends mere gratitude for blessings and moves into a realm of elevated esteem and delight in God's nature. He notes that while many Christians express thankfulness for salvation and answered prayers, few truly admire God for who He is. Tozer argues that worship becomes more profound when it shifts from self-centeredness to a genuine appreciation of God's majesty and character. This transition from thanksgiving to admiration signifies spiritual maturity and aligns worship with the joy experienced in heaven. Ultimately, Tozer calls for a deeper, more selfless worship that reflects God's greatness.

Transcript

The dictionary says that to admire is "to regard with wondering esteem accompanied by pleasure and delight; to look at or upon with an elevated feeling of pleasure." According to this definition, God has few admirers among Christians today. Many are they who are grateful for His goodness in providing salvation. At Thanksgiving time the churches ring with songs of gratitude that "all is safely gathered in." Testimony meetings are mostly devoted to recitations of incidents where someone got into trouble and got out again in answer to prayer. To decry this would be uncharitable and unscriptural for there is much of the same thing in the Book of Psalms. It is good and right to render unto God thanksgiving for all His mercies to us.

But God's admirers, where are they?

The simple truth is that worship is elementary until it begins to take on the quality of admiration. Just as long as the worshiper is engrossed with himself and his good fortune, he is a babe. We begin to grow up when our worship passes from thanksgiving to admiration. As our hearts rise to God in lofty esteem for that which He is ("I AM THAT I AM?"), we begin to share a little of the selfless pleasure which is the portion of the blessed in heaven.

Source: <https://sermonindex.net/speakers/aw-tozer/admiring-god/>

Grow in Your Walk with Christ

Listen and read messages that will stir your heart for Christ and point you to deeper repentance and devotion.

- 50,000+ Sermons from speakers past and present
- 3,900+ Classic Christian Books freely readable online
- 1,200+ Bible Translations and Commentaries
- Over 450k forum posts — Join our vibrant online Christian forum

www.sermonindex.net