

Faithful Stewardship

by A.W. Tozer

God does not need our resources, but our giving to Him is essential for our own spiritual welfare.

Scripture: Matthew 6:19

Topics: "Generosity", "Stewardship"

Description

A.W. Tozer emphasizes the significance of faithful stewardship, urging believers to honor God with their resources rather than hoarding them for themselves. He explains that while individuals have the right to keep their possessions, doing so leads to spiritual decay and ultimately harms their well-being. Tozer clarifies that God does not require anything from us, as He is self-sufficient, but our giving is essential for our own spiritual health. The sermon highlights the enriching principle of offering ourselves and our possessions to God, reminding us that our generosity reflects our relationship with Him.

Transcript

God has been pleased to deal with us in a most remarkable way concerning our Christian stewardship and responsibility of honoring Him with the things He has entrusted to us. The Bible teaching is plain: you have the right to keep what you have all to yourself-but it will then rust and decay, and ultimately ruin you! This may hurt some of you but I am obliged to tell you that God does not need anything you have! He does not need a dime of your money! What you need to understand is that it is your own spiritual welfare at stake in such matters as this.

There is a beautiful and enriching principle involved in our offering to God what we are and what we have, but none of us are giving because there is a depression in heaven!

A long time ago God said: "If I had need of anything, would I tell you?" Brethren, if the living God had need of anything, He would no longer be God!
