

Bakht Singh Funeral - Part 1

by Bakht Singh

Boxing's story of conviction, conversion, and commitment to Christ serves as a powerful testimony of the transformative power of faith.

Duration: 6:00

Scripture: 1 Timothy 1:15

Topics: "Repentance", "Testimony"

Description

This sermon tells the powerful transformation of a man named Boxing who, after encountering the words of John 3:3, experienced deep conviction, repentance, and a profound change of heart. Despite facing opposition and being told to keep his faith a secret, Boxing boldly proclaimed his newfound faith in Jesus, leading to his baptism and a life dedicated to sharing his testimony with others.

Transcript

Boxing said, these very hands have torn the Bible. These very lips have blasphemed against Christ. On receiving a New Testament, Boxing began reading.

When he reached John's Gospel, chapter 3, verse 3, which says, Verily, verily, I say unto you, has convicted him. His heart began to beat faster. Tears rolled down and he began to say, Oh God, please forgive me.

His past sins were coming before him. He learned that he was a greatest sinner. He knelt down and confessed all his past sins.

He was filled with joy and kept on repeating the name of Jesus. In 1929 December, Boxing was gifted a full Bible on Christmas by Hudson as he only had a New Testament. In February 4th, 1932, Boxing testified in the Waters of Baptism at Vancouver, Canada.

After which, he started sharing his testimony to friends from place to place. In April 6th, 1933, Boxing arrived in Bombay after seven years. His parents came to receive him and told him to keep his religion a secret to himself and not to tell anyone that he became a Christian.

He said, Can I live without breathing? When Christ is my life, how can I live without Him?
