

Preaching Revival Every Sunday

by Bill McLeod

This sermon emphasizes the importance of preaching the whole counsel of God, covering a variety of themes rather than focusing solely on revival. It highlights the need for pastors and preachers to diversify their messages to encompass the breadth of God's teachings and not neglect essential themes. By exploring a wide range of topics, we can effectively convey the richness and depth of God's Word to our congregations.

Scripture: Acts 20:27, 2 Timothy 4:2, Colossians 1:28, Proverbs 4:2, 2 Timothy 3:16

Topics: "Whole Counsel of God", "Diversity in Preaching"

Transcript

Paul said he preached all the counsel of God. We have to do the same as pastors or whatever, and this means we can't be preaching revival every Sunday of the year. I know of pastors who have done that, and they say to this one pastor, for eight years he preached nothing but revival.

This is not right. I made a list a while ago of themes that we should be preaching on. There were about 80 of them, and you can't be neglecting these themes.

You're not preaching the whole counsel of God if you're always preaching about revival.
