Transcript

So how do you do the will of God? Have no self-will. That's Bible. Nobody likes it, but I should have some rights, huh? No, Jesus had no rights.

He gave them all up, none. He had zero say-so. The God of all creation, once he hit the globe, had zero say-so, not one.

But the Bible says he literally did everything. Only what he saw the Father doing. We need to start running back to the Bible way and find our happy place there.

There's something, especially in this last hour, because darkness is just increasing, deception's increasing. In this disorderly nonsense, this super insubmissive, it's everybody needs a say-so, and everybody's opinion matters. No, your opinion does not matter.

And everybody's just this whole equal rights. No, there are no equal rights in the kingdom. You have no rights.

I'm constantly, Lord, how do I not have any more? I don't want any more rights, because flesh tells you you need something. Jesus is looking to empty himself. That's what Philippians 2 is.

I love this. His full assignment was to baptize, to kick the whole thing off, which is death, and hang on a tree to settle it all, which was death. That's it.

His whole goal, the joy set before him, cross.
