

Unless A Grain Of Wheat Falls Into The Ground

by Carter Conlon

This sermon emphasizes the need for God's saving grace and intervention in our lives, acknowledging our inability to save ourselves or overcome challenges on our own. It reflects on the surrender and sacrifice required, drawing parallels to the journey of the cross and the transformative power of dying to self to bear fruit. The plea for God's salvation echoes the sentiment of being unable to fulfill God's calling or purpose without His intervention.

Scripture: Psalm 22:21, John 12:24, Psalm 3:8, Psalm 37:39

Topics: "God's Saving Grace", "Surrender and Transformation"

Transcript

Verse 21, from the lion's mouth and the horns of the wild ox, save me, oh God. He finally gets to the place in this journey in a sense that he's undertaking, which is a type of the cross where he says, it comes down to this. Oh, save me, God.

I can't save myself. I can't talk my way out of this. I don't have the strength to get out of this.

I can't go into the places that you're calling me to go. I can't be the person that you're calling me to be. God, you have to come and you have to save me.

John, the beloved apostle, he says it this way in John chapter 12 and verses 24 to 26. Most assuredly, Jesus said, I say to you, unless a grain of wheat falls into the ground and dies, it remains alone. But if it dies, it produces much grain.
