

Walking Through God's Open Door For Your Life (Clip)

by Carter Conlon

This sermon emphasizes the importance of relying on God's strength rather than our own, highlighting the promise of God to walk with us, help us, and be for us. It speaks about the unstoppable nature of God's plan for our lives when we are yielded to Him, and the assurance that no one can stand against God's purpose. By walking in alignment with God's plan, we can experience miracles beyond our understanding.

Duration: 0:54

Scripture: Isaiah 41:10, Romans 8:31, Ephesians 3:20, Proverbs 3:5, 1 Corinthians 2:9

Topics: "Relying on God's Strength", "Aligning with God's Purpose"

Knowing that I could never have done this in my own strength, only through the strength of God. I will hold your hand, he said. I will help you.

I will walk with you. And if God be for us, who can be against us? Who can stand against the plan of God? If you are completely yielded to the plan of God in your life and you're beginning to walk with him into that plan, tell me who who has the strength to stand against God? Who has the strength to say, oh you've come this far but no farther? No, the God who created the universe by the word of his mouth is able to take you into the fullness of whatever it is that he's assigned for your life to be. You and I don't know what that is.

We have no idea what it is he's asking us to do, but I do know this one thing, that if we go through the open doors he sets before us, miracles happen on the other side. And I tell you that, I can tell you that with authority this day.
