

Immediate Freedom

by C.H. Spurgeon

The Bible promises immediate freedom from Satan's oppression, and believers can experience this freedom by trusting in Jesus and His promise of deliverance.

Scripture: Psalm 34:17, Isaiah 10:27, Nahum 1:13, Matthew 11:28-30, Luke 4:18, John 8:36, John 14:13-14, Romans 8:1-2, 2 Corinthians 3:17, Galatians 5:1

Topics: "Immediate Freedom", "Deliverance from Bondage"

Description

C.H. Spurgeon emphasizes the promise of immediate freedom from bondage as stated in Nahum 1:13, where God declares His intention to break the yoke of oppression. He reassures those who feel trapped by sin and Satan that deliverance is not only possible but immediate, urging believers to trust in God's power to completely shatter their chains. Spurgeon highlights that this freedom is not merely a removal of burdens but a total breaking of the yoke, ensuring that the oppressor cannot return. He calls on the faithful to believe in Jesus for a complete and everlasting emancipation, affirming that true freedom comes from Him alone. The sermon encourages listeners to act on their faith without delay, as God's promise of deliverance is for the present moment.

Transcript

For now will I break his yoke from off thee, and will burst thy bonds in sunder. (Nahum 1:13)

The Assyrian was allowed for a season to oppress the Lord's people, but there came a time for his power to be broken. So, many a heart is held in bondage by Satan and frets sorely under the yoke. Oh, that to such prisoners of hope the word of the Lord may come at once, according to the text, "Now will I break his yoke from off thee, and will burst thy bonds in sunder!"

See! The Lord promises a present deliverance. "Now will I break his yoke from off thee." Believe for immediate freedom, and according to thy faith so shall it be unto thee at this very hour. When God saith "now," let no man say "tomorrow."

See how complete the rescue is to be; for the yoke is not to be removed but broken; and the bonds are not to be untied but burst asunder. Here is a display of divine force which guarantees that the oppressor shall not return. His yoke is broken, we cannot again be bowed down by its weight. His bonds, are burst asunder, they can no longer hold us. Oh, to believe in Jesus for complete and everlasting emancipation! "If the Son shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed." Come, Lord, and set free Thy captives, according to Thy Word.
