

Solomon's Infatuation Through Women

by Clement of Rome

Solomon's story serves as a cautionary tale about the dangers of allowing worldly desires to lead us astray from our faith.

Scripture: 1 Kings 11:1, Proverbs 5:3, 1 Corinthians 10:12, James 4:4

Topics: "Earthly Desires", "Spiritual Ruin"

Description

Clement of Rome reflects on the life of Solomon, a man blessed with wisdom, knowledge, and riches by God, yet who fell into ruin and turned away from the Lord due to his relationships with women. This serves as a cautionary tale about the dangers of allowing earthly desires to lead us astray from God's path, no matter how blessed or wise we may be.

Transcript

Have you not read the history of Solomon, the son of David, the man to whom God gave wisdom, and knowledge, and largeness of mind, and riches, and much glory, beyond all men? Yet this same man, through women, came to ruin, and departed from the Lord.
