Description

Colonel John Lawley shares a heartfelt message about the overwhelming love of the Savior, who sacrificed everything to save sinners like us. He emphasizes the joy of salvation, illustrating how our sins, though towering like mountains, are washed away in the fountain of Christ's grace. The sermon invites the congregation to celebrate their redemption and the promise of eternal life, as their names are written for a heavenly inheritance.

Transcript

I've heard all the Saviour's love was strong. He loved poor sinner like me. He turned his back on the glory I sprung, so save poor sinner like me.

The angels they sang him from glory. I'm glad they told me the story. He sang from life, so suffer and die and save poor sinner like me.

Now everybody help me with the chorus and clap your hands with all the joy and soul you have. My name rose up high as a mountain. They all disappeared in the fountain.

He put my name down for a palace and crown. Let me get there, I pray.
