

All Will Be Gathered On Judgment Day

by Conrad Murrell

This sermon emphasizes the universal gathering of all souls on the final day, where every individual, regardless of status or background, will be stripped of all worldly possessions and pretenses. It delves into the exposure of every deed and thought, both righteous and wicked, with a clear distinction between the blessed and the cursed, leading to eternal consequences. The importance of being prepared for this ultimate judgment day is highlighted, where every action, even the seemingly insignificant, will be brought to light and commended by the Lord.

Duration: 9:45

Scripture: Matthew 25:32, 1 Corinthians 4:5, Matthew 12:36, Matthew 25:34, Matthew 25:41

Topics: "Final Judgment", "Preparation for Eternity"

That great day, every soul gonna be there. All gonna be there. Every man, woman, boy and girl, old and young.

All the wealthy and successful. As well as every penniless beggar. All the wise.

The intelligent. The accredited. Those with their academic excellence.

Every fool. The morons. The slow-witted.

The powerful. And the weak. The honest.

And the deceitful. The righteous martyr. As well as the human butchers who murdered the saints.

The drug runners, the pimps and the prostitutes. The false professors and the hypocrites. The timid, the fearful and the unbelieving.

All who love worldly life more than God. All gonna be there. And everybody gonna be stripped.

Of everything. That flesh and wit and world and wickedness. Has won for them.

Everything that your own strength of your flesh. Your own intelligence. Your own wit.

And your own wickedness and device. And your own hard work. That you all you put together to protect yourself.

And care for yourself and insure yourself. Comfort yourself. You'll be brought back to ground zero.

Without money. Without possessions. Without power.

More powerful than anything else. As far as the unrighteous are concerned. Without advocates.

There won't be one voice in the universe. To say one word. Good.

For you. Not one. You stand alone.

Everybody else worrying about himself. No voice. No voice.

No voice to comfort. None whatsoever. Even if I wasn't a Christian.

I had a hard day in this world. Everybody give me a beating and a kicking around and a cussing. When I got home I tell my wife.

She put her arm around me and said. That's alright honey I love you. Alright don't you pay attention to me.

Don't even be that. Not at all. None.

Credentials will be gone. All the honors and accolades that have been given to men. They are well applauded.

The hands have stopped clapping. The fine robes. With the medals and the honors and the crowns and the stations.

And the badges and the seals. Of authority. And position.

Gone. Naked. Nothing left.

All gone. Everything that sets men apart. And above other men.

All that gone. To plead your cause. Nothing to plead your case.

For him. All things are open and clear with him. With him we have to do.

He's afraid of us. What we are. What we have done is crystal clear to him.

We are going to be stripped of all of our pretenses. Our lives will avail nothing. The hypocritical veil.

That all of us wear. Will be stripped away. Now don't tell me you don't have it.

You do. That's why when you say something, when you want to be real honest. Well to be honest.

I'm telling you honestly speaking. Well to be perfectly frank. The reason you say that is you're not always perfectly honest.

You're a little hypocritical. All that's going to be gone. Even those hypocrisies that you don't know about.

That you have. They're going to be gone. That's all going to be there.

The exposure of every wicked deed. And every impious thought. The Bible says every idle word that men shall speak in that day.

Shall be brought to account. All those slanders. That armoring and railing that you did behind someone's back.

Every shameful thought. The most impious. The most lurid cogitations of your mind.

Every dirty word you've ever said. Every bad deed. Weighed for its wickedness.

And the full punishment. Pronounced. For every one of them.

All comprehended. And weighed in this one awful, awful, awful final word. Depart from me ye wicked.

Get out of my sight. An everlasting punishment. Prepared not for mankind but for the devil and his angels.

You like the devil. You preferred the company of demons. And the sweet, blessed communion of the Holy Ghost.

You enjoyed them. They aided you. Now you can spend eternity with them.

And listen to their mocking and railing and accusations. And share their eternal, everlasting punishment. Don't get mad at me about this.

Because I don't like that hellfire damnation preaching. There's too much of it in the Bible. We've been silent about it too long.

Depart from me ye cursed. God says that. The suffering Savior says that.

The compassionate Son of God. He who died for man. He says that.

Depart from me ye cursed. An everlasting fire. But there's another aspect to it.

Both the sheep as well as the goats are there. There'll be the revelation of every righteous deed. Even and especially those of which we're not aware.

Who's going to bring those out? The Lord is. He's going to tell us what we've done that's right. Now here on this earth you have men lie to you and give you flattering lips and brag on you.

And you know they're lying when they do it, but you like to hear it. But the fact that men have said it, and you know that men are deceitful and flattering, detracts from the enjoyment of it. Dear Lord, when the Lord says it.

Dear friend, when the Lord says it. You know it's so. They'll be brought out and commended by the Lord.

Every one of them. Not one cup of water given in the name of the Lord shall you lose it. Do you think about that? That there is utterly impossible for you to do one right virtuous deed on the face of this earth.

That slipped by without his notice. Very few people know how good you are. Every one of them.

Now you talk about a motivation. You want to lay up some treasure. You want to prepare for your retirement.

Huh? And then that greatest, that most blessed, that ultimate in comfort, the sweetest sound that ears could ever hear. Come ye blessed of my Father. That's what you are.

Hear the blessed of my Father. Enter into the rest prepared, not for the angels, but for you. From the foundation of the world.

Oh dear friend, just as sure as we sit here breathing God's air this morning, you and I are going to hear one or the other of those two words. Come ye blessed. Depart ye cursed.

So, wouldn't it be that you'd be ready to meet him? Prepared for that great day. Whether it come while we're living. Or after we're dead.

It's not going to make a bit of a difference. We're going to be gathered before him.
