

God Hasn't Even Fainted

by David Wilkerson

God is the everlasting Creator who does not faint or become weary, and those who trust in Him will renew their faith and strength.

Scripture: Psalm 121:4, Isaiah 40:28, Isaiah 40:31, Matthew 11:28, Hebrews 13:5

Topics: "Trust in God", "God's Omnipotence"

Description

David Wilkerson emphasizes the everlasting nature of God, who neither faints nor grows weary, reminding us that He is always present and attentive to our needs. He challenges the misconception that God is distant or inactive in our lives, urging us to recognize His omnipotence and constant guidance. Wilkerson reassures believers that those who place their trust in God will find renewed strength and vitality, soaring like eagles and persevering through life's challenges.

Transcript

"Have you not known? Have you not heard?

The everlasting God, the Lord, the Creator of the ends of the earth, neither faints nor is weary.

There is no searching of His understanding"

(Isaiah 40:28).

There is an ignorance of God

That supposes He no longer reveals Himself

To mankind in his crises and needs--

That He is either dead or asleep,

Unable to monitor or guide the steps of man.

But who is man to measure God?

To whom will we liken Him

Or compare Him?
Hast thou not known?
Hast thou not heard?
The everlasting Creator,
The God of the ends of the world,
Neither slumbers nor sleeps.
He fainteth not,
Neither is weary,
But they that trust in Him
Shall renew their faith and strength
They shall fly as eagles:
They shall run and not be weary,
Nor shall they faint.
