

The Exclusivity Of Christ Alone Under Attack

by David Wilkerson

This sermon addresses the exclusiveness of Christ and the challenges Christians may face in upholding this belief in a secular world. It emphasizes the inevitability of being tested on the requirement of accepting Christ for salvation and the potential persecution for standing firm on biblical truths, such as the need for being born again. The speaker warns of the growing opposition to Christian beliefs, citing examples like the imprisonment of pastors for preaching against societal norms like homosexuality.

Scripture: John 14:6, Acts 4:12, Matthew 10:22, 1 Peter 4:12, Matthew 5:10

Topics: "Exclusivity of Christ", "Perseverance in Faith"

Parliament in England, in London, on the exclusiveness of Christ. And I warned the Christians in Parliament. I said, time's going to come.

You're going to be tested because they're going to ask you, is there any, do I have to come through your Christ to get to heaven? Do I have to be what you call born again to get to heaven? Do you mean to tell me I'm damned? And I've been asked that question. And that's going to be the issue. Now that's going to happen in the United States, in Sweden right now, a Pentecostal pastors in jail because they preached against homosexuality and.
