Wisdom of God

by Edward Payson

God's wisdom is not limited by human understanding and is continually increasing, providing new proofs of His all-wise nature.

Scripture: Romans 11:33
Topics: "Divine Providence", "Gods Sovereignty"

Description

Edward Payson preaches about how even in the darkest moments when the church feels overwhelmed and on the brink of destruction, God's wisdom and divine intervention are at work to bring about deliverance and turn despair into victory. The angels themselves marvel at the ways in which God orchestrates salvation, constantly increasing in their admiration of His inexhaustible resources and ability to achieve His purposes through unexpected and unlikely means.

Transcript

Often when the church thinks itself in the most imminent danger, when its friends are ready to cry in despair, All these things are against us, our destruction is inevitable; angels are lost in wonder in view of the means which divine wisdom is, even then, employing to effect its deliverance and turn its despondency into triumph. For some thousands of years they have been contemplating this spectacle; their knowledge and their admiration of God's wisdom have been continually increasing, and yet every day they learn something new, every day they see new proofs that Jehovah is indeed the all-wise God; that his resources are inexhaustible; that he can never be at a loss; and that he can effect the same object in numberless different ways, and by the use of the most improbable means.
