

Being Married To God

by Eric Gilmour

This sermon emphasizes the importance of surrendering our will to God's will, drawing parallels between marriage as the loss of self in another and our relationship with God. It highlights the sacrificial nature of love, where we prioritize God above all else, even our closest relationships, to truly understand and follow Him.

Scripture: Matthew 10:37, Galatians 2:20, Luke 9:23, Philippians 2:5

Topics: "Surrendering to God's Will", "Sacrificial Love in Relationships"

Transcript

Maybe you're here tonight and your will continually trumps his will. Let me tell you right now, that's the opposite of marriage. Marriage is the loss of self in another, and when we're married to God, we give up our will to his will.

That's love. Love is, I prefer you above me. So when Jesus says crazy statements like this in Matthew 10, verse 37, he says, if any man loves father or mother more than me, they're not worthy of me.

Why? Because they don't even see who I am.
