

He Giveth Quietness.

by F.B. Meyer

God gives us quietness in the midst of turmoil, accusation, and loss, reminding us of His presence and love.

Scripture: Job 34:29, Psalm 46:10, Isaiah 26:3, Zechariah 3:2, Matthew 11:28, Mark 4:39, John 14:27, Philippians 4:7

Topics: "Overcoming Accusation", "Peace in Christ"

Description

F.B. Meyer preaches on the theme 'He Giveth Quietness,' emphasizing that God provides peace amidst the accusations of Satan, the storms of life, and the loss of inward consolations. He illustrates how the great accuser tries to overwhelm us with guilt and doubt, but Christ intercedes for us, offering quietness and reassurance. Meyer also describes how, in the midst of life's tempests, Jesus calms the storms and brings peace to our troubled hearts. Furthermore, he explains that even when we feel a loss of joy, God draws near to remind us of His presence, granting us an infinite calm. Ultimately, the message is that true quietness comes from trusting in God's everlasting love and presence.

He giveth quietness. Job xxxiv. 29.

QUIETNESS amid the accusations of Satan. ‑‑ The great accuser points to the stains of our past lives, by which we have defiled our robes and those of others; he says that we shall fall again and again; he imputes evil motives to our holiest actions, and detects flaws in our most sacred services; he raises so great a hubbub that we can hardly hear another voice within our souls. Then the great Intercessor arises and saith, "The Lord rebuke thee, O Satan; the Lord that hath chosen Jerusalem rebuke thee: I have loved with an everlasting love, I have paid the ransom. So "He giveth quietness."

Quietness amid the dash of the storm. ‑‑ We sail the lake with Him still, and as we reach its middle waters, far from land, under midnight skies, suddenly a great storm sweeps down. Earth and hell seem arrayed against us, and each billow threatens to overwhelm. Then He arises from his sleep, and rebukes the winds and the waves; his hand waves benediction and repose over the rage of the tempestuous elements. His voice is heard above the scream of the wind in the cordage and the conflict of the billows. Peace, be still! Can you not hear it? And there is instantly a great calm. "He giveth quietness."

Quietness amid the loss of inward consolations. ‑‑ He sometimes withdraws these, because we make too much of them. We are tempted to look at our joy, our ecstasies, our transports, or our visions, with too great complacency. Then love, for love's sake, withdraws them. But, by his grace, He leads us to distinguish between them and Himself. He draws nigh, and whispers the assurance of his presence. Thus an infinite calm comes to keep our heart and mind. "He giveth quietness."
