

Our Daily Homily - Philemon

by F.B. Meyer

Philemon's letter illustrates how we can apply Christ's spirit in our everyday dealings and relationships, and how God's grace can restore us from our sinful past.

Scripture: Luke 15:24, John 15:15, Romans 5:20, 2 Corinthians 5:17, Ephesians 2:8-9, Colossians 3:13, Philemon 1:12, Hebrews 4:16, 1 Peter 2:9, 1 John 1:9

Topics: "Redemption", "Grace"

Description

F.B. Meyer reflects on the letter to Philemon, emphasizing how our everyday interactions can embody the spirit of Christ. He draws parallels between Onesimus and our relationship with Jesus, highlighting that just as Onesimus became dear to Paul, we too are cherished by Christ. Onesimus, once unprofitable, represents our own journey of sin and redemption, illustrating that through grace, we transition from being servants to beloved brothers and sisters in Christ. Meyer encourages us to recognize the depth of our relationship with the Lord, who forgives our wrongs and elevates us to a place of privilege and blessing.

Transcript

My very heart - Philemon 1:12

This fragment of ancient letter-writing gives us a model of the way in which our commonest or most prosaic dealings, and our letters, even on business matters, may breathe Christ's spirit. It also illustrates the relation in which we stand to Jesus Christ. What Onesimus was to Paul and Philemon combined, that we are to our Lord.

What was Onesimus to Paul? - His child, whom he had begotten in his bonds. He had probably been discovered by some of his companions in the purlieu of Rome, where criminals concealed themselves from justice, and abandoned characters gave vent to the wildest passions. Or, having heard that the apostle, whom he had so often met in his master's house, was residing in his own hired house in Rome, the runaway slave had found him out, when in the extremity of hunger. In either case he had now become dear as the apostle's heart; had learned to minister to him in his bonds; had proved more than a servant - a brother beloved. O Thou who hast redeemed us from our sins, may we be all this to Thee!

What was Onesimus to Philemon? - He had been unprofitable; and we have been. He was sent back; and we have returned to the Shepherd and Bishop of our souls. He had been a servant, henceforth he should be a beloved brother; and we are no longer servants but friends. He had grievously wronged his master; but his sin had been forgiven, and so covered by over-abounding grace, that it would bring him into a position of greater privilege and blessing than ever before. In this man's sin and restoration we see ourselves. Where our sin abounded, grace has much more abounded, through the tender pity of Him who had put our defalcations to His own account.

Source: <https://sermonindex.net/speakers/fb-meyer/our-daily-homily-philemon/>

Grow in Your Walk with Christ

Listen and read messages that will stir your heart for Christ and point you to deeper repentance and devotion.

- 50,000+ Sermons from speakers past and present
- 3,900+ Classic Christian Books freely readable online
- 1,200+ Bible Translations and Commentaries
- Over 450k forum posts — Join our vibrant online Christian forum

www.sermonindex.net