

Let Your Social Media Boasting Die

by Gary Wilkerson

This sermon addresses the danger of boasting and seeking validation through worldly achievements like church growth or social media following. It emphasizes the importance of guarding our hearts against the temptation of comparison and the desire for bigger and better things, urging listeners to let go of these distractions.

Scripture: Proverbs 27:2, Galatians 6:14, 1 Corinthians 1:31, Philippians 2:3

Topics: "Humility", "Guarding Against Comparison"

Transcript

To go to the conference and say, my church has grown from 800 to 1500. Now I'm going to there and saying, my social media is following, and I have this and I have that. It's boasting.

And so what I had to do is I got my phone and I just, I have Instagram poo. You have that little delete button. Pastors, maybe the delete button might be the best thing you have in your life.

To, I don't know if you have social media or not, or, but it's, and I'm not talking about the actual thing. Social media is good. And it's powerful tool that God is using mightily.

World Challenge loves the ministry. I know Times Square Church loves the fact that we can reach around the world. So I'm not speaking about that.

I'm speaking about a heart issue. Something gets inside your heart and begins to draw you into, to the bigger, to the better, the more spectacular. The comparison, I have this and you have that.

And I want to encourage you, just let it die. Let it go.
