

The Wasted Years

by George Mueller

George Müller's sermon highlights the transformative power of faith and redemption in overcoming a life of sin and addiction.

Scripture: 2 Corinthians 5:17, Ephesians 2:1

Topics: "Redemption", "Transformation"

Description

George Müller reflects on his life before his conversion, acknowledging the wasted years spent in sin and moral degradation. He candidly shares his struggles with theft, deceit, gambling, and alcoholism, illustrating the depths of his depravity. Müller's testimony serves as a powerful reminder of the transformative power of faith and the importance of redemption. His journey emphasizes that no one is beyond the reach of God's grace, regardless of their past. Ultimately, Müller encourages others to seek a relationship with Christ to avoid the wasted years he experienced.

Transcript

George Müller was born in 1805 and until his conversion to the Christian faith in 1825, there was, on his own admission, hardly a sin into which he had not fallen.

He had become an habitual thief, liar, gambler and a cheat, devising cunning and devious methods to fulfil his evil desires. Besides his immoral ways it was George Müller's need for alcoholic drink that caused many of his problems. Even when his mother lay dying he was found roaming the streets in a drunken state.
