

November 12. 1678. a Call Into the Vineyard.

by Jane Lead

The sermon emphasizes the importance of being actively engaged in spiritual work and seeking the strength of the Spirit to overcome the challenges of life.

Scripture: John 15:1, Galatians 5:22, Ephesians 6:10, 2 Timothy 1:7

Topics: "Spiritual Preparation", "Faithfulness"

Description

Jane Lead emphasizes the urgency of engaging in spiritual work rather than remaining idle in a time of great importance. She highlights the necessity of tending to the vineyard of our souls, ensuring that we are not empty vessels lacking the Spirit's power. This spiritual preparation is crucial for facing the challenges of the future, where there will be widespread discouragement and weakness of faith.

Transcript

This Morning it was first spoke to me, Consider that this is no time to stand Idle in the Market-Place. Here is a Vineyard-work to do, to trim and dress, that ye may not be found empty Vines, without the Spirit of Wine in your Cluster-Grape. For it is that which must give Vigour and Strength against the Evil Day, when you will see faintings of Heart and Spirit everywhere.
