Description

John Gill emphasizes the assurance believers have in prayer, highlighting that when we ask according to God's will, we can be confident that He hears us and will grant our requests. This holy confidence allows believers to trust that their petitions are already answered in God's perfect timing and manner, reinforcing the importance of aligning our desires with His will. Gill encourages the congregation to maintain faith in God's responsiveness to their prayers, fostering a deeper relationship with Him.

Transcript

Ver. 15. And if we know that he hear us,.... As it may be assured he does hear and answer all such persons that ask according to his will:

whatsoever we ask, we know, or are assured, that we have the petitions that we desired of him: for as it is the nature of that holy confidence, which believers have in God, to believe whatever they ask according to his will, in general, shall be grappled, so every request in particular; yea, before the mercy desired, or the favour asked for is conferred, they are as sure of having it in God's own time and way, as if they now had it in hand and fact.
