

God Saves Us By Calling Us

by John Piper

This sermon emphasizes the divine calling and predestination of believers, highlighting how God's call brings individuals to faith and new life in Christ. The analogy of Lazarus being called forth from death to life is used to illustrate the miraculous nature of God's call in salvation, even for those who may not have been formally taught. Through the gospel, God's call creates life, sparks faith, and leads to justification through union with Christ.

Scripture: Romans 8:30, John 11:43, Ephesians 2:8, Galatians 2:20

Topics: "Divine Calling", "New Life in Christ"

Transcript

Those whom he predestined he also called, and those whom he called, all of them he brought to faith. They came to faith. That's what the call does.

Lazarus, come forth! Dead live! That's the call of God. If you are a believer, that miracle happened to you. You may have never been taught, that's how you got saved.

That's how you got saved. God, through the gospel, called you, created life, faith happened, union with Christ justified.
