

Charles Finney Revival Lectures Sparked Revival

by Keith Daniel

This sermon emphasizes the transformative power of prayer and the impact of sincere, heartfelt intercession. It highlights the story of Andrew Murray, whose prayer moved a congregation to deep repentance and ultimately sparked a revival in South Africa. The message encourages a reevaluation of personal biases and a return to the foundational truths found in the Word of God, which have the potential to bring about significant historical and spiritual change.

Scripture: James 5:16, 2 Chronicles 7:14, Psalm 51:10, Acts 3:19, Proverbs 3:5

Topics: "Transformative Power of Prayer", "Sincere Intercession"

Transcript

As he read, his young son Andrew Murray fell down and prayed in a way no one had ever heard a preacher pray in that part of the country or in our country's history, I believe. He prayed in a way that the whole place, over 300 preachers, went down on their faces, groaning before God. 50 days later, God began in South Africa's only revival through that young Andrew Murray, who groaned when his father read that book.

I would say, perhaps we need to say, God, in spite of my biased doctrines that I'm defending, we need to read a book again that will turn a nation's history. As it has, the only preacher that ever turned my nation's history, literally, was Andrew Murray, as a result of hearing his father teach what's written in a book you people are trying to bury.
