

True Personal Revival Will Affect The Church

by Keith Daniel

This sermon emphasizes the importance of personal revival for both the individual and the church. It challenges believers to seek daily personal revival, highlighting that true revival extends beyond personal integrity to a broader interpretation of spiritual renewal. The speaker underscores that living in personal revival breaks down the walls of the church, expanding one's ministry to the whole world, and suggests that without experiencing personal revival, one may not have truly tasted revival in life.

Scripture: Psalm 85:6, 2 Chronicles 7:14, Acts 3:19, James 4:8, Revelation 3:2

Topics: "Personal Revival", "Spiritual Renewal"

Transcript

We as a church and I as a pastor seek revival if we're living in revival, personal revival daily. I don't challenge his personal integrity, but I challenge broadly what that might interpret. Sir, the moment you are living in a personal revival, your church walls fall down and the whole world is your parish, or you've never tasted revival in your life.

Unless the whole world, your country beginning, is what you are on your faces groaning for to God to reach, groaning, groaning, holding on to the promises, crying out to God with burdened grief that the Holy Spirit gives you if you need to be taught how to pray. But you haven't a personal revival, nor has your church, if you're complacent. You're dead.
