Description

Leonard Ravenhill reflects on the profound practice of laying on of hands, a tradition he learned from his father, a devout believer in the Bible. He emphasizes the significance of this act in imparting blessings, healing, and spiritual empowerment, showcasing the deep faith and conviction that accompanies such a practice. Ravenhill's message encourages believers to embrace this biblical principle as a means of connecting with God's power and grace.

Transcript

My daddy was a real old saint of God. He believed the Bible. He believed in laying on of hands, and he could lay them on, I'll tell you that.
