

c.t. Studd

by Norman Grubb

C.T. Studd's story teaches us the importance of faithfulness to God's call and the power of evangelism in spreading the Gospel.

Scripture: Isaiah 6:8, Matthew 28:19, Acts 20:24, 2 Timothy 2:2

Topics: "Mission Work", "Discipleship"

Description

Norman Grubb speaks about the unwavering commitment to God's calling, using the example of C.T. Studd's dedication to the mission field. Studd's willingness to return home only under the condition of sharing with church leaders highlights the importance of spreading the Gospel and equipping others for the work of the ministry.

Transcript

And they used to try to get old Studd home from the Mission Field. He said, "God sent me out here. When God tells me to go home I'll go home. Well, he's gone home up that way instead. But he said this, "Look here, I will come home on one condition. I'll come home from Central Africa to England for two days if you will hire the Albert Hall and let me get the leaders of the church of Christ there, and I'd give them something for two days, and I'd go back to Africa again." Praise the Lord!
