

God Loves To Come Near To His People

by Paul van Engelenhoven

This sermon emphasizes how God, a transcendent and loving God, desires to come near to His people, as seen in His revelation of glory to Moses. It highlights the importance of prayer as a means for believers to draw near to God, with the assurance that He loves to answer prayers, as evidenced by numerous verses throughout the Bible that encourage prayer as a way to commune with God.

Scripture: Exodus 33:18, James 4:8, Philippians 4:6, 1 Thessalonians 5:17, Luke 18:1, Psalm 145:18

Topics: "God's Presence", "The Power of Prayer"

Transcript

He showed Moses his glory. You know why? Because this transcendent God is a loving God who loves to come near to his people. He loves to come near to his people.

He loves it when you and I pray, speak to God. He loves to answer our prayers. I can give you many verses.

This is not once in a hidden corner in Scripture. This is in many verses. The Bible almost constantly says, pray, pray, pray, pray, pray.

Why is that? Because God wants you to come near to him, so that he come near to you.
