

Giving That Which is of Most Value To Jesus

by Randy Krahn

This sermon focuses on the powerful act of a woman breaking a flask and anointing Jesus, symbolizing a deep level of surrender and devotion. It explores the idea that she may have been holding back a part of herself from fully committing to God, possibly due to a connection to her past. Through this act, she demonstrates a complete surrender by giving all she had to Jesus, letting go of the last thing that held her back.

Scripture: Mark 14:3, Matthew 26:12, Luke 7:47, Philippians 3:7, Romans 12:1, Galatians 2:20, James 4:7, 2 Corinthians 5:17, Colossians 3:1

Topics: "Surrender", "Devotion"

Transcript

And she breaks the flask and she pours it on Jesus' head, down to the cloak, down to his feet and to the ground, and she anoints him for burial. Maybe she'd given 90% to the Lord at this point, and there was conviction and opportunity for her to do this in other times, but she'd not gone through all the way with God. Perhaps she was holding back this one thing, which is a connection perhaps to her past, and then she was motivated to go through with God and to put that last thing to rest in her heart as she went and brought all that she had to Jesus, that thing that was of most
