

Some Sins God Utterly Detests

by Sam Caldwell

This sermon delves into the concept that some sins are viewed as more heinous in the eyes of God than others, using the example of how theft and drunkenness are not described as severely as sodomy or homosexuality in the Bible. Leviticus 18:22 and Leviticus 20:13 highlight these sins as 'abominations,' using the Hebrew word 'toe a bar,' signifying something detested by God.

Scripture: Leviticus 18:22, Leviticus 20:13, Proverbs 6:16, Romans 1:26, 1 Corinthians 6:9

Topics: "Sin Hierarchy", "God's Abominations"

Transcript

Some sins in this list are more heinous in the eyes of God than others. For example, look at the list here. Thieves, drunkards, those sins are not spoken of in such horrid terms as sodomy or homosexuality in the rest of the Bible.

They simply aren't. And so you want to get this in Leviticus 18 verse 22 and Leviticus 20 verse 13. The word used for these particular sins is abomination.

In Hebrew, it is toe a bar. Very important word. It literally means something that God detests.
