

Jesus Said You Will Cast Out Demons

by Shane Idleman

This sermon emphasizes the importance of not dismissing spiritual gifts and manifestations just because they may seem uncommon or have not been personally experienced. It challenges the tendency to rely solely on human interpretation rather than the words of Jesus regarding the continuation of spiritual gifts like speaking in tongues and casting out demons.

Scripture: Mark 16:17, 1 Corinthians 12:7, 1 Thessalonians 5:19, Acts 2:4

Topics: "Spiritual Gifts", "Faith in the Unseen"

Description

This sermon emphasizes the importance of not dismissing spiritual gifts and manifestations just because they may seem uncommon or have not been personally experienced. It challenges the tendency to rely solely on human interpretation rather than the words of Jesus regarding the continuation of spiritual gifts like speaking in tongues and casting out demons.

I mean, it's commonplace. Because they're so desperate to hear from God, they're open to God. Or the gifts of the Spirit.

All these things are very, very common in people that don't know any better other than reading their Bible. Oh, the Bible says this, then we get theologians in there who mess it all up. Oh no, that doesn't happen anymore.

Just because you've never experienced it, doesn't mean it doesn't happen anymore. I remember a famous Bible teacher. I'll never forget, I just almost broke my heart.

They don't really cast out demons, believe in any of that anymore. That doesn't happen anymore. He said, I tried that when I was younger.

I tried to cast out a demon, but it didn't work. Oh, okay, so now all of theology is wrong. When Jesus said, if you believe on Me, you'll speak in tongues, you'll cast out demons.

Jesus said it. So I'm going to lean on what Jesus said.
