

Seeking God Till You Find Him

by Shane Idleman

This sermon emphasizes the importance of wholeheartedly seeking God, drawing parallels to searching for something valuable in the Hebrew language. It highlights the need to prioritize seeking God above all else, even in urgent situations, and not just when it is convenient or easy. The speaker shares a personal story to illustrate the urgency and commitment required in seeking God with all aspects of our being.

Scripture: Deuteronomy 4:29, Jeremiah 29:13, Matthew 22:37, Proverbs 8:17, Psalm 119:2

Topics: "Wholehearted Seeking", "Prioritizing God"

Break it down, the Hebrew language, it talks about you lose something very valuable, and you have to find it. How would you look for it? After the first service, I get a text, my wife says, hey, I can't find her four-year-old. Well, well, well, shoot.

Well, let me get through the second service first. I've got some baptisms. Then we'll look around one o'clock.

That's why many people are not seeking God. They fit them on their counter if it's convenient. We actually, I think we stopped the church service or almost did in Lancaster because we couldn't find one of the kids.

What are we going to do? I'll go home. No, you have to find that thing of value. So think about that.

If you seek me with some of your heart, if you seek me with all of your heart, with all of your strength, with all of your soul, with all of your mind, you will find me. Could it be that many of you are half-heartedly seeking God?
