

The Morning Office on Sunday Shall Begin With Psalm 66

by St. Benedict of Nursia

The Morning Office on Sunday is structured around Psalms, canticles, and scriptural readings to guide the listener in praise, thanksgiving, and spiritual growth.

Scripture: Psalm 50

Topics: "Liturgical Worship", "Sunday Service"

Description

St. Benedict of Nursia emphasizes the importance of starting the Sunday Morning Office with Psalms 66 recited continuously, followed by Psalms 50 with 'Alleluia,' Psalms 117, 62, the Cantic of Blessing, and Psalms of praise. He instructs to include a lesson from the Apocalypse to be recited by heart, the responsory, Ambrosian hymn (Te Deum), a verse, the Gospel book cantic, and the litany before concluding the service.

Transcript

The Morning Office on Sunday shall begin with Psalm 66 recited straight through without an antiphon. After that let Psalm 50 be said with "Alleluia," then Psalms 117 and 62, the Cantic of Blessing (Benedicite) and the Psalms of praise (Ps. 14[15]8-150); then a lesson from the Apocalypse to be recited by heart, the responsory, the Ambrosian hymn [Te Deum], the verse, the cantic from the Gospel book, the litany and so the end.
