

The Third Degree of Humility

by St. Benedict of Nursia

The third degree of humility involves submitting to one's Superiors in all obedience, imitating Christ's example of obedience even unto death.

Scripture: Ephesians 5:21, Philippians 2:8, James 4:7, 1 Peter 5:5

Topics: "Christian Obedience", "Humility"

Description

St. Benedict of Nursia preaches on the third degree of humility, emphasizing the act of submitting oneself to a Superior in complete obedience out of love for God. He draws parallels to Jesus' obedience to the point of death, as mentioned by the Apostle, highlighting the ultimate example to follow in imitating the Lord.

Transcript

The third degree of humility is that a person for love of God submit himself to his Superior in all obedience, imitating the Lord, of whom the Apostle says, "He became obedient even unto death."
