Transcript

1991, riding his bicycle, heart attack and died. A health fanatic, a jogger, an eating good food, making sure everything he did was right, living for God, living holy. If there was ever a man that should have lived to his 90s, James Irwin the astronaut should have lived in his 90s.

But he died. I thank God that he was one of those that was living for the Lord. He was on fire for God.

But what you do right now friend, what you're doing right now in your life determines what's going to happen to you after you die. Stay with me.
