

He Fills All, and Yet Remains Full

by Thomas Brooks

Christ's fullness is an overflowing fountain that fills all without diminishing, and He remains full and abundant.

Scripture: Psalm 36:8, John 1:16, John 7:38, Romans 11:36, 2 Corinthians 9:8, Ephesians 3:19, Philippians 4:19, Colossians 1:19, Colossians 2:9, Hebrews 1:3

Topics: "The Fullness of Christ", "Divine Abundance"

Description

Thomas Brooks emphasizes the boundless fullness of Christ, illustrating that just as the sun does not lose its light by illuminating the world, and a fountain does not diminish by filling vessels, Christ overflows with grace and goodness while remaining complete. He is the ultimate source of worth and wealth, encapsulating all perfections found in creation. Brooks encourages believers to recognize that all excellencies are united in Christ, who is the epitome of divine fullness.

Transcript

"It pleased the Father that in Him should all fullness dwell."

Col. 1:19

The sun has not the less light for filling the world with light.

A fountain has not the less for filling the lesser vessels.

There is in Christ the fullness of a fountain. The overflowing fountain pours out water abundantly, and yet remains full.

Why, the Lord Jesus is such an overflowing fountain; He fills all, and yet remains full. Christ has the greatest worth and wealth in Him. As the worth and value of many pieces of silver is concentrated in one piece of gold, so all the petty excellencies scattered abroad in the creature are united to Christ; yes, all the whole volume of perfections which is spread through heaven and earth, is epitomized in Him!
