Topics: "Discipleship", "Prioritizing Christ"

Description

Thomas Brooks emphasizes the radical commitment required to follow Christ, illustrating that true discipleship demands prioritizing love for Christ above all earthly relationships, including family. He references Jerome's powerful declaration that one must be willing to 'trample upon' familial ties to reach Christ, underscoring the necessity of placing Christ first in our lives. Brooks argues that any love for others that surpasses our love for Christ indicates a lack of true devotion to Him.

Transcript

"If anyone comes to Me and does not hate his father and mother, his wife and children, his brothers and sisters--yes, even his own life--he cannot be My disciple." Luke 14:26

Surely they do not truly love Christ--who love anything more than Christ.

It was a notable saying of Jerome, "If my father should hang upon me, my brethren should press round about me, and my mother should stand before me--I would throw down my father, I would break through my brethren, and I would trample upon my mother --to come to Christ."
