Description

Thomas Brooks emphasizes the profound truth that all aspects of our lives, including sorrows, comforts, miseries, mercies, dangers, and duties, are under God's sovereign control, as expressed in Psalm 31:15. He highlights the significance of the word 'times' in the plural, indicating that every moment and season is orchestrated by God. This understanding encourages believers to trust in God's timing and providence in every situation they face.

Transcript

"My times are in Your hands," says David, Psalm 31:15.

Not only the times of his sorrows--but also the times of his comforts;

not only the times of his miseries--but also the times of his mercies;

not only the times of his dangers--but also the times of his duties, were in the hands of God. It is observable the Psalmist does not say time--but times, in the plural, to show that every point and period of time depends upon the hand of God.
