

Satan Promises the Best

by Thomas Brooks

God's promises are always kept and are made in pure gold, unlike Satan's promises which are false and lead to harm.

Scripture: Psalm 37:4, John 10:10, Romans 6:23, 2 Corinthians 1:20, James 1:17

Topics: "Faithfulness of God", "Deception of Sin"

Description

Thomas Brooks emphasizes the deceptive nature of Satan, who lures individuals with enticing promises of honor, pleasure, profit, and life, only to deliver disgrace, pain, loss, and death. In contrast, he highlights that God fulfills His promises with true value, offering blessings that are genuine and everlasting. The sermon serves as a reminder to discern between the empty promises of the enemy and the faithful assurances of God.
