Description

Thomas Brooks emphasizes the grave danger of trading one's soul for temporary pleasures, likening it to children who exchange valuable jewels for trivial items. He warns that many people, in their pursuit of fleeting desires, are foolishly selling their immortal souls to Satan. The sermon challenges listeners to recognize the true worth of their souls and to avoid the trivial pursuits that lead to spiritual ruin. Brooks calls for a deeper understanding of the eternal consequences of our choices and the importance of valuing our souls above all else.

Transcript

"What good will it be for a man if he gains the whole world, yet forfeits his soul? Or what can a man give in exchange for his soul?" Matthew 16:26

We laugh at little children to see them part with rich jewels for silly trifles; and yet daily experience tells us that multitudes are so childish as to part with such rich and precious jewels as their immortal souls for a lust, or for base and unworthy trifles. Ah, for what a trifle do many thousands sell their souls to Satan every day! Oh, they trample under feet, that matchless jewel--their precious and immortal souls!
