Description

Thomas Brooks addresses the alarming lack of shame among sinners, comparing them to those with 'whores' foreheads' who cannot blush for their sins. He emphasizes that many today not only lack remorse for their immoral actions but also take pride in them, treating sin as a source of glory rather than disgrace. Brooks warns against the normalization of such behavior, highlighting the spiritual blindness that allows individuals to flaunt their abominations without a hint of shame.

Transcript

"Are they ashamed of their loathsome conduct? No, they have no shame at all; they do not even know how to blush!" Jeremiah 6:15

Most sinners in these days have brows of brass, and whores' foreheads--which cannot blush. They are so far from being ashamed of their sins, that they think it a shame and disgrace not to sin, not to swear, and whore, and curse, and be drunk! Yes, there are many who are so far from being ashamed of their abominations--that they even glory in them. They flaunt their sins as Sodom, and make a sport of sinning!
