

The Bible Is God's Revelation Of Men's Sin

by Tim Conway

This sermon emphasizes the Bible as the ultimate authority on sin and God's revelation, focusing on the history of humanity in sin and the remedy provided. It highlights the perfection of creation and the immediate introduction of sin in the early chapters of the Bible, tracing the age of sin throughout. The sermon points out that the new heavens and new earth, where righteousness dwells, are only revealed in the final chapters of Revelation.

Scripture: Genesis 1:31, Genesis 3:6, Revelation 21:1

Topics: "Authority of Scripture", "Redemption through Christ"

Transcript

What's presented in this book? Not only is the Bible the final authority about sin, but it's basically God's revelation. It has to do primarily with the history of man as he is in sin and what the remedy of that sin is. You know, you come into this book and what do you have? Everything is created, everything is created perfect.

But how far do you get into the Bible before sin comes? How far? Two chapters. The age of sin goes all the way through. And you know what? You don't get the new heavens and the new earth and which righteousness dwells until what chapter.

You're right. In Revelation at the end. 21.
