

Sharing In Christ's Sufferings

by William Henderson

This sermon emphasizes the concept of suffering for someone else's wrongdoing and how it can bring believers closer to the Lord. By enduring unjust suffering, individuals can identify more closely with Jesus, fostering a deeper fellowship with Him. The message highlights Christ's example of not seeking personal justice but entrusting all wrongs to God for judgment, urging listeners to stay focused on their ministry rather than being distracted by self-defense.

Scripture: 1 Peter 2:21, Philippians 3:10, Matthew 5:39, 1 Peter 4:19, Romans 12:19

Topics: "Enduring Suffering", "Identifying with Christ"

Transcript

So when you go, when you suffer for wrong, for somebody else's wrongdoing, you haven't done anything, that that's what the Lord did. You actually can identify closer with the Lord. It's, you're sharing in something the Lord shared in that you never shared before and so it brings you closer enjoyment and fellowship with the Lord.

Christ did nothing wrong but he released wrongs against him to his father to be judged. He didn't seek justice and I just want to make this point, the enemy wants to keep us from not being on target and so if the enemy can keep, can take us off the target into a just cause like defending yourself, he wins because you pulled yourself out of ministry to defend yourself.
