

Waiting For God's Vindication

by William Henderson

This sermon emphasizes the importance of waiting on God's timing for vindication, drawing on the idea that God has waited 2,000 years to vindicate His name. It highlights the significance of how we respond when wronged, stressing that our actions in the face of false accusations are crucial and can reveal our approval before God.

Scripture: 1 Corinthians 11:19, Genesis 39:20, Psalm 37:7, 1 Peter 2:23, Romans 12:19

Topics: "Patience in God's Timing", "Responding to Injustice"

2,000 years to vindicate his name. Can we wait a little while with him? He's waited 2,000 years. Can we wait a few months, a years, before God vindicates? What you do, this is very important, the Lord has taught me this, what you do when wronged is more important than asserting the facts.

If that's, I would say that's got to be one of the main points I want to get across to you. I have learned it through practical experience. When you are falsely accused, when people say things against you, Paul says in 1st Corinthians in chapter 11 verse 19, these things must occur to show who's approved.

In other words, we know they're coming. And so look through the Bible, a lot of godly men were accused of wrongdoing, they hadn't done anything, but Satan was trying to get them off target, pull them away from the work, pull away the pattern that the world desperately needs to see of Christ. And so we need to keep on the mark, keep imitating Christ, keep showing the world the love of Christ.
