Description

In this sermon, the speaker discusses the importance of confession as a road to revival. He references the story of the prodigal son and how he realized his need to return to his father and confess his sins. The speaker emphasizes the need for Christians to come before God and confess the sins of their nation, church, and personal lives. He also mentions the attacks on sacred ordinances in the United States, such as the institution of marriage, and encourages believers to stand firm in their faith. The sermon concludes with a mention of a prayer group in California that dedicates time to confessing sins and praying for Christian missions.
